Dear Nate:

It is with the deepest regret that I see you retiring. It has always been a pleasure, over the past years, to work with you. You have made an outstanding contribution to our national security and have set a fine example for those who will follow in your important post.

I read over the other day your outstanding address to the National Security Industrial Association. It was a splendid resume of the problems we face and I was touched by your reference to my brother and to what he stood for.

Clover joins me in all good wishes to you both and in the hope that we will be seeing much of each other in the days to come.

Faithfully yours,
